India Added to Red List for UK Entry - Update 19 April 21:00

The UK Government has confirmed that India will be added to its red list of countries from 0400 BST on Friday 23 April 2021.

This means that if travellers who have been in or through India in the previous 10 days, will be refused entry to the UK. However, if they are a British or Irish National, or have residence rights in the UK, they will be able to enter the UK, but must quarantine in a government approved hotel for 10 days.

At present our flights between London Heathrow and Delhi and Mumbai services will be operating as scheduled until Friday 23 April, subject to change.

From 23 April, the UK Government has confirmed that direct passenger flights for essential trips between Heathrow and India can continue to operate after the country is designated on the red list. We're currently reviewing our schedule of India operations from this date, and recommend that any customers booked to travel to or from India check their flight status on www.virginatlantic.com.

We understand the difficulties that Covid-19 and this latest 'red list' restriction may pose to our customers. Where a Virgin Atlantic customer is unable to travel for any reason, we offer as much choice and flexibility as possible to help travellers change or amend their plans, with the option to make a date change or name(s) change with the service fee waived, for a new travel date all the way until 30 April 2023. Fare difference may apply. View our latest policy here.
